

The Parliamentary Code of Conduct

POLITICAL LEADERSHIP IN TIMES OF HEIGHTENED CONFLICT

Open European Dialogue

October 2024

In times of intense political division, The Parliamentary Code of Conduct offers a set of principles and practical recommendations drafted by politicians, for politicians, to exercise leadership effectively, responsibly, and strategically amidst societal tensions and conflict.

POLITICAL POSTURE

- Keep an open mind - approach issues with a spirit of enquiry and a willingness to understand different perspectives.
- Be honest - explain your decisions clearly and transparently, yet be honest in acknowledging the justifiability of other positions.
- Lead with respect – avoid using shame or humiliation as tactics in political discourse.
- Show empathy – rehumanize the debate and maintain rivals not enemies.
- Nurture human relationships and dialogue – gather with others across party lines and find opportunities to talk openly.
- Don't be afraid to say sorry - admit mistakes and apologize when necessary, learn from the successes and failures of other politicians as well as your own.
- Listen deeply – focus on hearing others fully before speaking.

PRINCIPLES OF RESPONSIBILITY

- Do the research - ensure your facts are accurate, and stay open to changing your mind when new information emerges.
- Embrace conflict - as a natural and essential part of democracy. The desire to eliminate conflict is deeply undemocratic.

- Structure debates thoughtfully – in a complex world, ordering debates and discussions is a public service.
- Keep your promises– say what you’ll do, and do what you say. Don’t promise things you know you can’t deliver.

STRATEGIES FOR CONFLICT MANAGEMENT

- Focus on solutions, not problems – aim for compromise by thinking about problems with a solution-oriented mindset.
- Target issues, not individuals – stick to advancing your positive agenda rather than reacting to others’ negative agendas.
- Know your counterpart – take time to understand how they think and the values that shape their positions.
- Allow others to save face – when navigating conflict, give people the space to maintain their sense of dignity.
- Avoid binary positions – steer clear of encouraging the entrenchment of rigid, either/or positions and inject nuance into the debate.
- Take a 360° view - sit with all stakeholders and engage them in conversation before making decisions.
- Use process and moderation as tools – these are effective methods to advance discussion and make progress on stale debates.
- Pick your battles– avoid creating unnecessary enemies by picking conflicts that truly matter.

RESOURCE YOURSELF

- Take breaks when negotiating – recharge, a calm mind and body will help you negotiate more effectively.
- Stand firm in your position – embody it fully, but don’t take conflict and disagreements personally.
- Lead with vision – know where you want to go, but be flexible in how you get there. Never lose sight of your purpose and the people you work to serve - and remember, if you won’t do it, who will?
